Chinese Conversation is open to all current Rutgers students and recent graduates who are interested in expanding their knowledge of Chinese language and culture.

It is organized by Confucius Institute of Rutgers University (CIRU) to provide students with an informal, fun learning environment for practicing Chinese and bonding with fellow students over their shared interest in Chinese culture.

Each meeting is dedicated a particular topic and explores differences between Chinese and American culture. Topics include food, love, college and fashion.

All students who have completed 101 or equivalent are welcome to join.
